District to receive grant

Schools to get $150,000 as part of Safe to Learn program

By Mike Heil
Staff writer

Granite City School Superintendent Steve Balen told the school board at its meeting Tuesday night that the district is one of 26 school districts in Illinois that will receive a portion of money from $4.3 million in state grants for improved security. "State legislators who approved the grants realize that they have to be partners to solve problems in school safety," Balen said. The district asked for—and will receive—$150,000 in Safe to Learn Grants from which eight portable metal detectors will be purchased, along with surveillance cameras, locks and fencing to secure three walkways. The district will use the money as well to hire three psychologists to help high-risk students, or those who demonstrate violent tendencies toward other students, as part of the district's profiling system.

Metal detectors, Balen said, will be used only at the high school. Surveillance cameras will be secured near the entrance of each of the district's nine elementary schools, Balen said, so that school personnel can monitor who enters, and will be secured at the high school in areas that could not be monitored previously. In regard to the psychologists, three will be hired. The district currently has three part-time psychologists on staff.

The district will receive the funding in three sums. It has received the first sum and will receive the others in January and March. Funding is being distributed by Illinois Violence Prevention Authority (IVPA), which is co-chaired by Illinois Attorney General Jim Ryan and State Public Health Director Dr. John Lumpkin. The IVPA was established in 1995 as one of Ryan's Children's initiatives to address the root causes of violence among youth in today's society.

Warriors band ready to compete

Long summer training sessions are paying off in exhibitions

By Mike Heil
Staff writer

The Marching Warriors of Granite City High School have just completed a stellar performance in a field competition. After 10 minutes of choreographed marching and playing a musical piece or fight song, band members pose for a customary picture, then change in to more comfortable attire before entering the stadium to watch the remaining performances. "The competitions are pretty intense," said Ben Jackals, Granite City High School band director. "I tell the kids to go for perfection, hoping they may come close."

Those attending the Warriors' competitions, football games and parades see the finished product, but do they realize the work ethics, dedication and time involved from which the fine-tuned performances dazzle spectators and fans?

"I don't think so," Jackals said. "I don't think people realize how dedicated our band is."

The dedication, which entails about six months of preparation, begins in early spring, with music being chosen for fall competitions. The music is written as early as May. Toward the end of the school year, new band members become acquainted with fellow members, receive schedules and logistical information for the up-coming school year and participate in a week of musical rehearsals.

During June and July, members partake in marching and music camps before a two-week, intensive band camp begins, from which fundamentals and show drills are practiced. By the end of camp, their goal is to have their routines perfected for their first performance.

"They love practicing and performing," Jackals said. "They feel great when they come off the field, knowing they've done their best."

The band performed for the first time this fall at the Warriors' football home opener against Jerseyville. The last performance will take place Oct. 22. During that span, members will participate in five competitions, two parades, two prep assemblies, as well as at football games and at various community activities. The band will also travel to Minnesota for an annual fine arts excursion, visiting sites of interest in Minneapolis.

"The kids raise money for the trip and they really look forward to it," Jackals said. "It's a popular event on their calendar."

3565 strike continues

Health District protesting administrators' actions

By April Calvin
Staff writer

East Side Health District employees, members of Local 3565's Council 31, went on strike Wednesday, picketing outside the headquarters at 650 N. 20th Street in East St. Louis, and at satellite work stations in the area.

"We want to get their attention, but we don't want to hurt the public," said union representative Tracy McNeese.

Few people showed up for services, and many of those who did were turned away. Administrators and members of AFSCME Local 3565 met last on Oct. 7 to discuss their labor dispute.

Further meetings are scheduled for Oct. 25 and 26. "They're not negotiating in good faith," said McNeese. She said the strike is intended to get the administrators'

Candy flavored cigarettes nothing to fool around with

Flavored smokes are harmful, too

By U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin

Think about this. You find your teenage daughter smoking. When you confront her, she says, "Don't worry, I'm not smoking regular cigarettes. I bought these bidos at the health food store. They're imported from India. They taste like chocolate, and they don't say anything on the pack about being dangerous. I think they're herbal or something."

If something like this did occur, you should be worried. Bidos are becoming a new fad among kids. And we're finding out they are just as bad, if not worse than cigarettes.

Just recently, a study on bidos was published in the Centers for Disease Control's journal, Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report.

The study focuses on the health effects of bidos and popularity of bid use among youth. Bidos are thin unfiltered cigarettes that are wrapped in brown leaves and tied with a short length of thread. They come in different flavors, including chocolate, strawberry, almond and root beer. They are sold in tobacco specialty stores and frequently in health food stores as well.

Bidos are not a safe alternative to regular cigarettes. The CDC study shows that bido smoke contains higher levels of carbon monoxide, nicotine and tar than cigarette smoke.

A higher percentage of nicotine means a bigger head rush than cigarettes as well as a stronger addiction to the product.

The fact that bidos are filterless means that more of the cancer-causing agent, tar, goes directly to the smoker's system.

Bidos have become popular among teens who see them as exotic and easier to smoke because of the flavorings.

The CDC study reported findings from a survey of Massachusetts' teens (seventh through 12 graders) that show a high prevalence of bido use.

Of the teens who were part of the study, 39.9 percent had tried bidos, 15.6 percent had smoked one in the last 30 days, and 7.8 percent had smoked 100 or more bidos in their lifetime.

When asked why they smoked bidos, respondents said that bidos taste better (22.6 percent), are cheaper (17.6 percent), are safer (13.3 percent), and are easier to buy (11.8 percent) than cigarettes.

I have called on the Food and Drug Administration to add bidos to the list of tobacco products purchased during compliance checks in order to cut down on illegal sales of bidos to minors.

With my support, the Federal Trade Commission is investigating the consequences of selling bidos in health food stores and the implied health claim this might suggest.

I also am talking with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms about the steps they are taking to ensure that bidos are taxed at the same level as cigarettes.

There is some evidence of bidos being sold without the tax, which would make this product even more appealing to young people who have less money to spend.

In addition, I am particularly concerned about the labeling of bido packs to provide more information to consumers, especially young people.

First of all, bidos should contain the U.S. Surgeon General's warning just like cigarette packs do.

Although the current cigarette warning label is not ideal, it is certainly better than having no warning label at all.

Second, there should be something on the pack that makes it clear that bidos are cigarettes.

As a matter of fact, according to the CDC study, they cause more harm than cigarettes.

The information on the pack should say "Bidos are not a safe alternative to regular cigarettes."

I will be introducing legislation before the end of this year's session to address this issue.

It is a sad fact that bido use is becoming a new fad and also a new area of public health concern. Government must enforce the laws already on the books affecting bidos.

Parents should know that they need to talk to their children about a product that although it may look harmless and tastes like candy, is really a deadly poison.

And everyone who handles these products should see clear warnings that bidos are just cigarettes with a sweet facade.

Politics are the rule in Springfield

By Dana Heupel

In Springfield, a city chock-full of government workers, politics is more than just a spectator sport. It's a culture with its own spoken and unspoken rituals.

And one of those rituals is helping the officeholder who pays your salary stay in that office or move to a higher one.

It's certainly true that some government employees want to contribute to the boss's political future because they're inextricably tied to his success, or grateful for their own. But it's also a given that others do so because they believe they're expected to.

Nobody puts it in writing, of course. But you have to be several chocolate bunnies shy of an Easter basket not to wonder whether your political contribution financial or otherwise will be considered during your performance review or affect your chance for a promotion.

And as you move higher on the ladder, that fact becomes even more of a factor. That's why many in Springfield have been intently watching prosecutions unfold in U.S. District Court in Chicago. It's 2,000 miles away, but the subject touches close to home.

Unless you've just emerged from a year in tropical rain forest, you're aware that the feds have convicted a dozen people in a scheme to sell truck driver licenses while Illinois Gov. George Ryan was secretary of state. Among those are five former managers and assistant managers at the McCook and Melrose Park license branches in suburban Chicago.

Former managers Marion Seibel and George Velasco have said that in exchange for rigging driver examinations, they solicited bribes for themselves and more than $100,000 in contributions and purchases of fund raising tickets for Ryan's political war chest.

They said they were given tickets to sell and believed they needed to do so to advance within the agency.

Trucking company employee Gonzalo Mendoza pleaded guilty to bribing secretary of state workers to fix more than 80 tests to help unqualified drivers obtain licenses. Among those he named was Ricardo Guzman. He was the driver whose truck's taillight assembly later fell off on a freeway near Milwaukee, causing an explosion and fire that killed six children in a nearby van.

Guzman has not been charged with a crime, but he and six other defendants in a civil suit have agreed to pay a total of $100 million to the parents of the children. Prosecutors say Guzman was among thousands of unqualified drivers who obtained their licenses through the scheme and contented that much of the money ended up in Ryan's campaign coffers.

Ryan said he feels bad for the family whose children died. He said he wants crooked license branch workers brought to justice. The U.S. attorney's office said early on that Ryan was not a target of the investigation.

Prosecutors have since decided to follow standard policy and not comment about the investigation, but that shouldn't be construed that the situation has changed, according to Randall Samborn, a spokesman for the office.

Investigators have not shown any evidence that Ryan knew about the alleged fund raising, or that his staff ordered any employees to collect money for his campaign.

And to his credit, Ryan has since decided to return any future contributions from employees of the governor's office who donate to his campaign fund because he says he wants to avoid any perception of pressure. Lt. Gov. Corinne Wood, Attorney General Jim Ryan and Comptroller Dan Hynes have followed suit.

It's certainly no excuse for employees to take bribes so they can donate money to their favorite officeholder. The chief executive of any organization sets the tone. Ryan's move to refuse contributions from his staff is a step to prevent future abuses.

Perhaps the governor's executive order and those of the other officeholders will help lessen the pressure that some state employees feel whether it's external or internal.

Even though current Secretary of State Jesse White has told his employees on several occasions they were not obligated to give money, perhaps he will review his decision to continue accepting contributions from them at all, given the allegations raised by the former employees.

The same goes for State Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka.

But Ryan's and the other statewide officeholders' policies won't automatically carry through to their successors.

If refusing campaign contributions from employees is such a good idea that four state constitutional officers have decided to do it, maybe the General Assembly should consider writing it into state law.

Granite City fails to advance

Warriors finish seventh in sectional; Briggs posts team-best 78

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

No one could argue that the Granite City golf team, with a 15-4 match record, had less than a great season.

BOYS GOLF

But Tuesday that season came crashing down on the Warriors' heads. Granite finished seventh in the IHSAA Class AA sectional at Clinton Hills in Belleville and failed to advance to the state tournament.

Quincy won the event and advanced, along with Charleston and Edwardsville, who won a fifth-score tiebreaker.

Brett Briggs, who was part of both the individual and team events, was the low scorer for the Warriors, shooting a seven-over-par 78. Briggs missed advancing to state by just two strokes.

"That 76 is a pretty low score," Granite City golf coach Boone Chaney said. "But he played rather well. He got off to a kind of shaky start, but he held it together. Brett played well all year."

As did senior Ty Suhre, the only other

Warrior in the individual competition. But on Tuesday, Suhre just didn't have it, shooting a 90 to miss advancing.

Jeff Jerden shot an 82, and Dan Harper had an 88 for the Warriors. Ryan McAteer carded an 86, and Josh Harrison added 87. "We had a real good year," Chaney said. "We just sort of went flat at the end of the season, but that happens sometimes."

"We had a 15-4 match record, and I don't think we got worse than third in any tournament we entered. We kind of came out flat at the end of the year, but I thought the kids had a good year."

those shoes.

"The big returning ones are Tiffany, Ashley, Jolene and Sarah Dettwiler. That is going to be our nucleus. Sarah Doty and Jill Jenkins also need to get stronger and need to hit the ball harder."

But the future will have to wait. Right now, the Warriors are concentrating on providing a positive showing in the sectional.

"Our sectional actually got a little bit tougher," Ames said. "We are in the Belleville West sectional with West, Belleville, Alhaff, and Jerseyville. And Collinsville is in it this year with us, they moved them into it. The way things worked out, that actually doesn't help us this year since we lost to Collinsville twice."

"All I can hope is that we get a little luck and a decent draw. I would hope that maybe we could get to the quarterfinals. That would be nice. But it is going to be tough. Beth and Kathryn lost to Collinsville's No. 1 doubles team in three sets, so any hope for a sixth seed probably went away with that."

Warriors edge Kahoks in conference contest

delivered the ball. It was just a matter of disciplining ourselves to not lose the ball in situations where they are going to get those throw-ins and get those transitional long balls, and that's kind of the other key to the match.

"They served a lot of long balls, and it's hard to play a team like that when you build and build with eight players and they bomb it all the way to the flag. Basically you are working 80 yards, and unless you make the perfect pass the final third, you are sprinting all the way back. That's why Granite City is tough on us."

The Warriors didn't appear to suffer any physical effects of the Saturday double-dip.

"We weren't tired at all, we were ready to play, but we just didn't have it," Granite City defender Miah Beckley said.

"But we are always up for Collinsville. With the seeding tomorrow night and the loss against Edwardsville, (Sept. 16) we really needed to win tonight to keep ourselves in it."

Baker said, "I think we just didn't come to play mentally. We had the tendency to ball-watch at midfield. If they don't ball-watch we are in trouble. If they do, we are in trouble. It puts too much pressure on our strikers. They are usually our real force, and I don't think they were moving to come back and get the ball and stop the passing lanes as much as we would like for them to do."

"We probably outplayed them at the beginning of the game, and then the middle two-thirds was theirs. Then at the end, it was ours again."

The seeding meeting for the IHSAA Class playoffs was held Wednesday. The Warriors, 14-2 on the season, have one Southwestern Conference game remaining, a home match against Belleville East tonight.

"We really didn't have too much thought about the seeding meeting," Baker said. "We thought that this game probably should have determined a No. 2 or 3 seed either way. We wanted to win because we wanted to win."

"That is going to be our senior night against Belleville East, and that's always a risk. But we have been trying to live up to doing the right things throughout the year, and we want to continue that against East."

Reader develops into leader

fun to go up more and get a chance to score. I haven't scored yet this year, but I want to."

"He has been moving up whenever we need him to," Baker said. "He has added quite a bit to our offense when he pushes forward."

It is true the actions speak louder than words, but for Granite to reach its goal of a state tournament appearance, Reader may have to match his bark to his bite.

"I think we need to come together as a team," Reader said. "We need to really work hard in practice."

"What I need to do to help the team is start to talk more. That is something that Coach has been talking to me a lot about. I have to direct the play from the backfield and speak up. As a team, we need to talk. That is one thing Coach has been preaching. If we do that, I don't think anyone can beat us."

Baker thinks Reader must share his knowledge with the rest of the team.

"He has such good seasoning and experience that he can provide some leadership by telling other people what to do at the right time, because he knows what to do," Baker said. "It is just the fact that he is a pretty reserved, quiet young man."

"He has had quality games behind him. We need for him to effect other people, because he has a good IQ, and he has a good soccer IQ."

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES
 Jeff Gordon, always so dominant in May, won for the first time in October at the track formerly known as Charlotte Motor Speedway.

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL
 Who says Michael Waltrip has never won? He's won eight times in Busch, though not since May 29, 1993, until he scored an exciting victory in the All Pro Bumper-to-Bumper 300. Waltrip passed defending champion Mike McLaughlin exiting turn two on the final lap. McLaughlin ran out of gas.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES
 Jay Sauter, driving a Chevy owned by Richard Childress, won for the first time this season as he passed Mike Bliss' Ford with three laps to go at Louisville Motor Speedway.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Petty Enterprises vs. NASCAR

Busch Grand National officials tossed Adam Petty out of the All Pro 300 after detecting some irregularities in the carburetor of young Petty's engine. The disqualification drew the ire of Petty's father, Kyle, who had an angry confrontation with the NASCAR officials in the BGN hauler after second-round qualifying.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "Was Kyle Petty mad? I'll say he was. Following his obviously loud exchange with NASCAR officials, he bolted the garage area, leaving a frustrated group of journalists in his wake. It was the first recorded incident of Kyle Petty refusing to talk ... about anything."

PROFILE

Ted Musgrave

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

Ted Musgrave's No. 75 Ford will have a new owner in 2000.

By Monte Dutton
 NASCAR This Week

Ted Musgrave, enormously respected as a competent driver and one of the sport's nice guys, is looking for a ride.

Musgrave has never won a Winston Cup race, but he has come oh so close, with four second-place finishes in a career that spans the decade of the 1990s.

His car owner, Butch Mock, recently sold most of his team to Tennessee businessman Darwin Oord, and Oord will put Wally Dallenbach Jr. in the No. 75 Ford beginning in 2000.

AGE: 43
HOMETOWN: Born in Evanston, Ill., raised in Franklin, Wis., resides in Daytona Beach, Fla.
WIFE: Debi
CHILDREN: Ted Jr. (21), Justin (18), Brittany (8)
CAR: No. 75 Remington/Polaris Ford Taurus, owned by Butch Mock

RECORD: 276 starts, 5 poles, 0 wins, 20 top-five finishes, 55 top-10s, more than $7.5 million in career earnings

FIRSTS: Start (Aug. 19, 1990, at Michigan), pole

(March 4, 1994, at Richmond), win (none)
IS THE COMPETITION BACK IN THE PACK JUST AS FIERCE AS IT IS UP FRONT? "It doesn't matter if you're in the top five, the top 10, top 15 or top 25, right on down the line. You look at provisional stuff, you look at plan money for next year, you look at a lot of things. Even sponsors say, 'We want a top-25 team or a top-20 team to sponsor.' They look at that and kind of look up, so it doesn't matter where you're at. There are point battles going on all the time. They fight just as hard as they do in the front for the point battle; they just don't get seen on TV or get mentioned a lot. There's a lot of competition going on back there."

HOW IMPORTANT IS IT TO FINISH IN THE TOP 25 IN POINTS? "It's kind of like qualifying. First-round qualifying stops at 25, and the points are the same way. If you're in the top 25 and you get a provisional, it doesn't count against you. There are a lot of things at that particular cut-off line. Naturally, the further up you go, the more money you make in the points system, but in reality the provisional deal gets more precious, so the top-25 line is going to be a dogfight."

Who's Hot... Who's Not

■ HOT: Jack Sprague took over first place in Truck Series points.

■ NOT: Darrell Waltrip failed to make the starting field for the UAW-GM Quality 500.

Trackside Trivia

1. Who was the first Cup driver to win twice at Phoenix?
2. When Junior Johnson became a car owner in 1966, who was his first driver?
3. How many times did Sterling Marlin finish second before he won his first Cup race?

J. Davey Allison; 2. Bobby Isaac; 3. Nine.

With pumpkins galore, visitors can pick their favorites.

Halloween is coming to Relleke Farms

The season brings the annual Fall Festival to Relleke's Farm.

Children play in the hay and the slide as several parents join in the fun.

Lauren Hasse, right, and Taylor Hasse, both of Granite City, laugh it up on the slide.

THURSDAY, OCT. 14

Venus, the planet of love and romance, enters emotional Cancer today, joining the sun and Mars in this sensitive water sign. Don't be surprised if you feel a sentimental shift in attitude while the skies are dominated by this intuitive force. Let the business-oriented Gemini moon help pull you out of any moody slumps.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY. It's a terrific money year. Things that have been up in the air can become clarified and stabilized. This could refer to home, work or both, with a more honed direction emerging around January. Love looks good this month and next and gets even better toward the end of the year. Your best signs for love are Aries and Libra.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Love makes you feel wonderful about yourself, but don't think that the hard work is over. Luck centers around investments, mutual funds and travel. At work, you are a powerful force for getting projects going.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You make a lucky first impression. If your immediate environment makes you feel tense, change it! Keep true to your financial vision when trends are not necessarily to your advantage.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Teach a family member or close friend by your example. Your financial plan is adjusted to include new goals. You meet a romantic prospect during what you considered idle time.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Despite your unassuming persona, you can be called on to get the job done. You have wisdom and can use your psychological powers to accomplish wonders with little effort.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). On the job, what you do matters long after you have departed. A romantic relationship may degenerate into a power struggle. Cancel a date you were planning to

Pig Races shake-up Millstadt Eckert's Orchard

By Jennifer Saxton
Staff writer

Kids chosen to cheer for particular pig, winner receives prize

There may be some extra oinking coming from the Millstadt Eckert's Orchard. Recently, Billy Bob's pig farms have shook things up at the orchard. Everyday, beginning at 10:30 a.m., the races occur every hour until 5:30 p.m. on weekdays and 6:30 p.m. on weekends. The pigs line up with their track shoes on ready to be first in their race around the circle. Rumor has it the winner of the race gets Oreo cookies in their food after the race, all to help them run faster.

The pig races began on since Aug. 28 and will run through the last weekend in October.

"The opening night was awesome," Andrew Walker, the weekend announcer for the races, said. "So many people showed up. They filled the entire hill, watching the pig races."

Jane Eckert, Vice President of Eckert Orchards, said the new addition has proved to be a success with families, especially the children.

'Cúzin' Andrew Walker of Belleville looks for volunteers to serve as 'Pig Leaders'.

"We try to make it fun for everyone. Instead of cheerleaders, we encourage the children to be pigleaders to cheer their pig to victory," Eckert said.

The children, who are chosen to cheer for a particular pig, all receive a prize after each race. And the winner of the fastest pig receives a special prize, which may help them never forget Eckert's pig races.

As Billy Bob, Walker, who is from Belleville, makes sure the spectators don't miss a thing by giving a play by play during every race, even though each race only lasts a couple of seconds.

Before each race, each pig is introduced, but their names may sound similar to the some people the spectators may have seen on television, in the movies or heard in country western music. The names of the pigs may turn a spectator's eye such as Roseanne Boar, David Letterham, Rush Limhog and Barbara Hamdrell.

"The best part about working with the pig races is picking on the people and being able to give them something exciting to do while they're at the farm," Walker said.

There are four heats in each race. York pigs, common commercially grown pigs, race in the first heat.

In the second heat, the Ossabaw pigs race. This endangered species of pig is from Ossabaw, Ga. There are less than 100 left in the United States.

"Since we are trying to preserve the Ossabaw pig, we are considered a private conservation farm for this species of pig," Eckert said.

In the third heat, the pigs are bigger and slower than all the rest. The Guinea Hogs originate from Africa. They are not commercially grown in the United States and at one time were commonly used in lard production.

The fourth heat is not a commonly known pig and spectators may have to take a second glance when they go out into the raceway. But, according to Walker during the show, "Our cousin Jed from Texas gave us these pigs and he wouldn't sell us the wrong thing."

In the fourth heat, instead of choosing children, Walker chooses adults to be pigleaders.

"The adults always get shy when they have to come up in front of everyone," Walker said. "People who aren't expecting it are usually the ones I chose."

Millstadt orchard offers many other exciting things for everyone to do. Along with the pig races, there is the Crow's Nest, where visitors can build their own scarecrow. The Mine Shaft Slide where children of all ages can travel down a slide built in the side of a hill. Pony rides and "Fort Eckert," a playground for children, may keep the kids busy for a little while. And, of course, apple picking for the entire family will put a smile on every face.

'Plunkett & Macleane' not geared for accuracy

18th century English highway robbery film avoids authenticity, blends in modern lingo

Jonny Lee Miller and Robert Carlyle in a scene from the Gramercy Pictures release, "Plunkett & Macleane."

At the Movies: 'Plunkett & Macleane'

The producers of "Plunkett & Macleane" want viewers to know they weren't gunning for historical accuracy in their film about 18th-century English highway robbery. They succeeded admirably in avoiding authenticity, far less so in blending modern music, lingo and other cultural flotsam into a bandit buddy movie set in a Britain of bygone years.

"Plunkett & Macleane" reunites Robert Carlyle and Jonny Lee Miller, respectively

'Three Kings' rockets above other action films

"Three Kings" offers unique modern war movie Film has wit, pathos, political commentary

It is symptomatic of the sickness of today's studio system that "Three Kings" had a rough road through the Warner Bros. hierarchy. Certain executives apparently were more willing to spend upwards of $150 million on the creatively impaired "Wild Wild West" than $40 million (final budget $50 million) on David

O. Russell's unique concept of a modern war movie.

Fortunately for Russell and the movie-going public, more farseeing minds prevailed, and "Three Kings" was made. The result is an engrossing adventure brimming with wit, yet with enough pathos and political comment to raise it far above the macho films aimed at the puberty market.

"Three Kings" has been compared to everything from "M*A*S*H" to "Schindler's List." What it most resembles is George Stevens' 1939 "Gunga Din," in which three adventurers also combined wit and battle.

Actually there are four kings, each a unique personality:

— Capt. Archie Gates (George Clooney) knows how to make end runs around the Army brass as a career soldier.

— Green Beret Sgt. Troy Barlow (Mark Wahlberg) is a reservist, a patriotic soldier who pines for his wife and new daughter in Detroit.

— Staff Sgt. Chief Elgin (Ice Cube) has been called up from his dreary job as an airport baggage handler; he has been bruised by his life at home and in the Army and finds solace in his Christian beliefs.

— Pvt. Conrad Vig (Spike Jonze), an unwitting clown who repeatedly exposes his lack of education.

The Persian Gulf War has ended with none of the quartet having seen action. Bored and restless, Gates concocts a crazy scheme: stealing the stash of gold Saddam Hussein reportedly stole from the Kuwaitis.

A map is discovered in a curious part of an Iraqi prisoner's anatomy. Gates commands it, and he believes it leads the way to a bunker containing the bullion (Vig wonders if that's the stuff that comes in tiny cubes that you make soup with).

The four set out on their adventure, regardless of the AWOL risk. Although there is an air of bravado, the action is not all fun and games. Russell also portrays the viciousness of a wartime atmosphere, on both sides. Blood is spilt, atrocities are committed, sorrow is felt.

Russell has created a marvel of invention to hold the audience's rapt attention. He employs techniques of the Nouvelle Vague: slow motion, quick cuts, still photos. He also varies the film's print quality — at times giving the effect of a documentary; at other times, a glossy Hollywood film. No American director since Orson Welles has used the screen so innovatively.

After a slow start in features since his TV hit "ER," George Clooney began his big-screen emergence with "Out of Sight." "Three Kings" confirms his status as an action star. Mark Wahlberg, impressive in "Boogie Nights," shows emotional range as the homesick citizen warrior.

The versatile rap star Ice Cube brings a powerful sensitivity to his role as the moral force among the brigands. Amazingly, Spike Jonze, director of music videos and the current feature "Being John Malkovich," has never acted in a film. He turns out to be a brilliant comedian.

Comedian Nora Dunn brightens every scene as the pushy, profane TV reporter who will do anything for an exclusive story.

"Three Kings" is a Warner Bros. release produced by Douglas Segal and Kim Roth. Rated R for language and brutality. Running time: 114 minutes.

I'm you're huckleberry

Test your quote IQ

By Kevin Carbery
Correspondent

Every now and then, someone will compliment a witty saying I blurt out.

More often than not, I have stolen it from a movie. I don't mind passing off good lines from films as my own. Compliments are hard to come by in life, and I will snare as many as I can.

Anyway, my friends and I often make a game of someone coming up with a line from a movie, then the others trying to guess where the quip had originally appeared. This also works with television shows, but I'll stick with the big screen for today.

Some lines are so well known that practically anyone would recognize them. "Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn," and "Surely, you can't be serious," are famous statements from two extremely different movies, though both are useful as a response in a surprising number of circumstances.

Virtually anything Groucho Marx ever said on film is worth repeating. "Marry me and I'll never look at another horse," comes from "A Day at the Races." "I can see you now, in the kitchen, bending over a hot stove. But I can't see the stove," is from "Duck Soup."

In recent years, a number of catch phrases from films have made it into the language of the public. "Jerry Maguire" gave us "Show me the money." "Forrest Gump" had people saying, "Life is like a box of chocolates." "Pulp Fiction" offered many lines I am not allowed to repeat here.

For this week's quiz, the topic is lines from films.

1. In which Arnold Schwarzenegger flick does he appear as a robot and say, "I'll be back?"

2. What actress said "Come up and see me sometime" in "I'm No Angel" from 1933?

Trivia

3. Who says "I'd like to kiss ya, but I just washed my hair," in "Cabin in the Cotton" from 1932?

4. "Looks like I picked the wrong week to stop sniffing glue," is from what 1980 comedy?

5. What line does John Wayne keep repeating throughout "The Searchers"?

6. "I love the smell of napalm in the morning," comes from what film set in Vietnam?

7. "It's not the years. It's the mileage," is from which action picture?

8. In what quirky movie will you hear the line, "I guess that was your accomplice in the wood chipper"?

9. In which of his films does Humphrey Bogart say, "Louis, I think this is the beginning of a beautiful friendship"?

10. "There's no crying in baseball" is from what 1992 movie?

ANSWERS: 1. The Terminator. 2. It's Mae West's famous line. 3. Bette Davis. 4. "Airplane!" which also contains the "Surely, you can't be serious" line mentioned above. 5. "That'll be the day." 6. "Apocalypse Now." 7. "Raiders of the Lost Ark." Indiana Jones says it when told he's not the man he used to be. 8. "Fargo." 9. "Casablanca." 10. "A League of Their Own."

I will host the following upcoming trivia events: St. Aloysius Gonzaga Church on Oct. 23. For more information, call 645-2878.

Kevin Carbery is affiliated with "The Entertainment and Trivia Show," which airs Sunday nights on KMOX Radio (1120 AM).

Horoscopes

attend out of obligation for one you will truly enjoy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). An authority figure is secretly measuring your effectiveness. Success depends on your ability to relax and be empathetic. You feel compelled to explain your behavior, but actions speak for themselves.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). It is easy to give the truth to a client or partner when you retain the utmost respect for this person. A spur-of-the-moment financial transaction benefits you. Physical attraction is strong between you and a Cancer.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Do not deprive a sweetheart of physical interaction. A co-worker may be angry enough to dissolve bonds between you and another co-worker. Be open-minded, and you can stop this from happening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Years of practicing your talent pay off big now. Building bonds of trust and reliability will overcome impossible odds for success in a certain endeavor. Include a lonely friend in your plans with a sweetheart.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Other people's needs become important to you. In fact, they are the key to getting what you want! Determine your role in a special person's life, or it could grow into something that will not benefit either of you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You find a shortcut to financial gain. Luck comes in threes. Incorporating respect into a relationship based on little more than physical attraction is a strong theme. Leo can bring out your aggressive side.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Cultivate empathy. A peace-loving attitude attracts love. Your next career move is now obvious. A reorganization of your time is necessary to fit in the social schedule you desire.

'Plunkett & Macleane'

the raging madman and the slick Sean Connery impersonator of "Trainspotting," and throws in Liv Tyler to boot. Promising casting, but it's a gradual slide down a muddy British byway after the opening credits.

The story also held promise: Down-and-out gentleman James Macleane (Miller) is on the outside of high society looking in. Enter vulgar ruffian Will Plunkett (Carlyle), who outfits Macleane in fancy duds to infiltrate the hedonist haunts of the rich and fatuous to case out victims the pair can hold up later on the roads.

The result is a visually explosive film with one foot in the grave of gritty old England and the other tangled up in bloopers that might have been cast off from one of those costume-drama music videos.

But the film's half-and-half approach grows tiresome. One minute, it's paupers wallowing in what looks like the same excessive mud recycled from "Monty Python and the Holy Grail." The next, it's muskets firing with the force of Uzis, and a carriage exploding like a petroleum tanker.

Miller and Carlyle still manage to perform commendably amid this mishmash of epochs. Carlyle especially shows why he's a corner in the film business. Coming in somewhere between the bestial Begbie of "Trainspotting" and the tender, immature father he played in "The Full Monty," Carlyle infuses Plunkett with a nice mix of class-warfare anger and noble savagery.

The filmmakers went for an in-your-face take on thieves and rogues of another century. Too bad, because they had a story, and in Carlyle and Miller, the actors who could give audiences a charming turn on the Butch and Sundance buddy system.

"Plunkett & Macleane" is distributed by USA Films and rated R.
